

Building Better Schools Training

“Where school design goes right ... and wrong”

Thursday 29th March 2007 at Syracuse University, Holborn, London

Are you about to embark on a major school building project whether new build or refurbishment?

The Where school design goes right ... and wrong training course is a stimulating, interactive day offering you an overview of the design process, techniques and practical advice to guide you through your future school building programme. It will also offer key learning for action plan development.

The day is aimed at school leaders and partners, Local Education Authorities as well as national and local agencies involved in delivering the largest school building programme in our history.

Trainers

Sharon Wright: Former Managing Director of School Works, member of the DfES Advisory Group on School Buildings and the Exemplar Design Working Group.

Allan Jarvis: Bradford's Building Schools for the Future Pathfinder Programme.

Content

- Overview of the design process
