

Go for a discovery tour on Dutch School Design.

If you have been reading the article 'Going Dutch' by Graham Olway of West Sussex County Council in your magazine 'Building Futures', you could have learned then about recent developments in both Dutch education and related school design.

In the Netherlands of today you will meet the most challenging learning environments, based upon accents of personalising learning, which have been translated into space by inventive Dutch architects.

After two successful study tours by West Sussex L.E.A., I invite you to meet up with me in Holland. You will experience school sites that are especially designed for various aspects of both new learning and teaching. This will certainly inspire you for your tasks to come in the UK!

The visits can be designed specifically to suit your authority's requirements. Costs of travel, accommodation and meals will need to be funded by your authority.

If you and your colleagues are interested, please send an e mail to:

Peter Eisenburger,
Mr. Gerritspark 23,
5361 JS Grave
The Netherlands

e-mail: p.eisenburger@planet.nl
mobile : 0031(0)6 45550935

Who is Peter Eisenburger ?

Former teacher of Art
Former head teacher of Kandinsky College, Nijmegen (secondary school + bilingual stream)
Today, Specialist Schools and Academies Consultant
Your guest at the EBD OG conference at Milton Keynes.

I look forward to hosting you.